★★★★★ Great Baby Einstein Video..., February 1, 2006

REAL NAME™

As my now 19 month old daughter began to learn some of her body parts, I wanted to find something that would engage her more in learning them. When I saw Baby Einstein had a video that did just that that I could watch along with her, I thought I'd give it a shot. I'm glad that I did. My daughter loves this video. She's fascinated with other kids so that made it more entertaining with her. She knows ten body parts now which I'm so happy about. We love this video!

★★★★★ My 4 month old loves it!, January 26, 2006

Reviewer: Bray's Mommy (AZ) - See all my reviews

My son turned 4 months old right after Christmas - when he got Baby Da Vinci as a present. I bought it for him because he is completely in love with the television set, and I figure if he's going to watch it, he may as well watch something that's good for his development instead of just whatever happens to be on.

The first time I put this on I was AMAZED. The video isn't meant for a child as young as my son, but I was hoping that the music (he LOVES music) would keep his attention. And boy did it! The whole video did! He sat there in his little swing and just stared at the set. He laughed at the puppets, he was even "talking" to the babies on the video - babbling is more like it, but he only does that to things and people he likes - so I'm impressed!

So far I am truly amazed by this video. We have two Baby Einstein CDs that we listen to in the car on the way to the babysitter's house in the morning and he enjoys them as well. I will definitely be purchasing more BE videos & CDs for my boy, and would recommend them to any parent as well!

★★★★☆ My daughter and I both loved it!, December 27, 2005

I loved the monkeys too! My 18 mo old daughter loved the puppets and is completely enamoured with the kids on the screen. I like that there is little narration. It gives me the opportunity to reinforce the body part and point without totally competing with the TV. It allows us to interact more. When my daughter sees the caterpillar come on, she shrieks with excitement. The DVD extras could be more generous. Overall this was an excellent kids DVD

★★★★☆ Baby Da Vinci, January 17, 2005

Reviewer: quilting grandma (California) - See all my reviews

My grandson, 15 months old, lost interest every time the hand drawings started. I understand that the "Da Vinci" in the title would imply that there are drawings, but it would have been a better DVD for my grandson if the creators had just left those out. He loves the World Animals DVD, but this one will just be filed away. I wouldn't recommend it.

★★★★☆ Get up and dance, November 27, 2004

Reviewer: Sammie's Mommy (Los Angeles, CA) - See all my reviews

I usually don't let my 15 month old daughter watch TV, but when she is sick, I put in DVDs to keep her from lying there thinking about how horrible she feels. I bought her this DVD when she had a bad cold. One day when she started feeling better, the head, shoulders, knees and toes song came on. She saw the children dancing and she got off the couch and started to mimic their moves! I was totally impressed. Maybe some TV isn't so bad for them after all...

★★★★★ Loved this Video, November 17, 2004

REAL NAME™

My 2 year old loves all of her Baby Einstein movies...we have all of them. Still at the age of 2 she is facinated by all the different scenes in each video. She loves Baby Da Vinci. She sings along with it...head, shoulders, knees and toes. She would only watch this one if I would let her. I strongly recommend this one for your toddler.
